The Weather.

For Kentucky—Cloudy and cooler Saturday.

Judge Hager and Col Hendrick will close their campaign with a rally in this city Saturday, Nov. 2.

County Attorney Duffy is down for a speech at Princeton to-day and has another appointment at Calhoun Monday.

The Illinois Supreme Court has handed down an opinion declaring the state primary election law unconstitutional.

Nine Democratic candidates in Cincinnati have declined to accept nominations by a convention they claim was governed by "boss rule." A close examination will be made to see if their wings have sprouted.

The court of appeals Friday, held that the local option law of 1906 cannot be construed as interfering with the right to ship liquor from another state into local option territory in Kentucky.

Rev. P. H. Fields, of Paducah, succeeds Rev. J. D. Hocker, of Owensboro, as candidate for lieutenant governor on the Prohibition ticket. Rev. Mr. Hocker, who lost his reason, is improving at Beechhurst Sanitarium.

Senator William E. Borah was acquitted at Boise Wednesday of the charge of complicity in the Western land frauds. The jury took but one ballot and the defendant was given an ovation by his friends when the verdict of acquittal was announced.

The Court of Appeals has refused a re-hearing in the case of Mrs. Marcum and Jim Hargis is up against a cash settlement of that $8,000 judgment, awarded as damages for the part he took in the Breathitt county feud that was fatal to Jas. B. Marcum.

Judge Jas. Breathitt will leave to-day for Pikeville, Ky., where he will speak Monday. He will fill appointments in the mountain counties for the next two weeks. The Judge is on the wrong side politically but he will give the mountaineers a sample of some of the best oratory of Western Kentucky.

The telephone trouble in Hopkins county has resulted in the passage of an ordinance by the Madisonville council fixing maximum rates for the charges of the Cumberland Telephone Co., imposing a license of $5000 a year upon said company if it fails to accept them. The ordinance was drawn by Judge W. H. Yost in conformity with a decision of the court of Appeals last March.

The total registrations in Louisville are 45,546. They are divided as follows: Democrats, 21,235; Republicans 16,215 and Independents 8,096. In 1905 the registered vote was: Democrats 26,873; Republicans 11,323, Independents 9,418. It is evident that many who have been registering as Democrats and voting the Republican ticket, have this year thrown off all disguise and registered as Republicans.

The Kentuckian to-day uses in its country edition the supplement containing Congressman Stanley's speech, delivered to the Tobacco Association Aug. 31, which was excluded from the mails on a technicality. The question submitted to the Postoffice Department for a construction by Postmaster Jno. W. Breathitt has been decided in favor of the admission of the supplement. The speech is still good enough to be circulated as widely as possible.

WEATHER AND BIOGRAPHY

Subjects of Two Excellent Papers at Athenaeum.

Nineteen members responded to their names when the Athenaeum met Thursday night. The dinner prepared by Capt. Whitlow in the ordinary of the hotel was one of unusual excellence and the program that followed was especially good and interesting.

Dr. Frank M. Stites' paper on "Weather Conditions and How They Are Forecast," was an exhaustive and intensely interesting recital of folk lore, superstitions and traditions on the subject of the weather, which led him up to a discussion of the government's weather reports and the scientific manner in which they are prepared and the forecasts sent to all parts of the country, in time to avert dangers from storms, floods, frosts and drouths.

Mr. John Stites followed with a character sketch and biography of "Benjamin Disraeli, the Earl of Beaconsfield." The rise of this highly successful English Jew from poverty and obscurity to the front rank of statesmen of the nineteenth century, made a paper of absorbing interest.

Both papers were discussed in short speeches for an hour.

Rev. Millard A. Jenkins and Dr. E. H. Barker were invited to membership in the society.

PRESBYTERIAN PASTOR Has Arrived To Enter Upon His Duties.

Rev. C. H. H. Branch, the new pastor of the Ninth Street Presbyterian church, together with his wife, has arrived and will be entertained by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McPherson for a week or two until the parsonage is ready for occupancy. Dr. Branch is a young man of the finest order of ability and comes with the strongest recommendations as one of the rising men of his denomination. The people of Hopkinsville of all denominations will accord him a cordial welcome to the city. He will preach Sunday morning and evening.

TYPHOID FEVER

Prostrates Young Man Just as He Reached the City.

Mr. George Roby, who came here ten days ago to take charge of the jewelry department of the Forbes Manufacturing Co., was taken down with typhoid fever within three days after his arrival and is very ill. His mother, from Columbus, Ind., arrived this week and is at his bedside.

THREATENING LETTERS SENT

Three Of Hopkinsville's Tobacco Buyers Receive Warning.

CANNOT BUY TOBACCO.

Letters All Came From Todd County, Evidently From Same Source.

Three tobacco men of Hopkinsville a few days ago got letters warning them that they could not buy tobacco as independents this season. The letters were of the usual anonymous kind and were sent from Kirkmansville, Todd county, to the following gentlemen: Robert C. West, John W. Wicks, and John Adams. The last named gentleman is a staunch administration man, but James Adams is an independent buyer and the letter writer may have addressed the wrong man.

These are the first moves made by the night riders since the attacks on W. J. Crowe and others near Bainbridge a month ago.

Callousness to Soldiers.

A painful case of what looks almost like needless hardship inflicted by a French colonel of cavalry on the men under his command is reported from Melan. The Eighteenth dragoons from Melan had been ordered to join the Seventh dragoons from Fontainebleau by a night march, and left at 2:30 a. m. Both regiments arrived about four a. m., but in a very different condition. The Seventh dragoons had ridden in their great cloaks, and were comfortable enough; but the Eighteenth, by the colonel's orders, had ridden without their cloaks, and three men fell from their horses struck by congestion; two others, too benumbed to stand, after dismounting, leaned against their horses and received kicks which fractured limbs, while quite a considerable number of men had to be sent to the hospital in a condition which, without being serious, necessitated rest and treatment.

Baby Rules a Street.

One of the curiosities of downtown streets is a baby in swaddling clothes, says the New York Times. An infant of tender age appeared on Nassau street the other day in the arms of its nurse. It attracted no end of attention, men and women of all ages and all conditions of life turning to look at it. In the opinion of everybody, except the immediate relatives, it was a very ordinary baby; it was the mere fact that it was a baby and was taking an airing in business streets that made it an object of general interest. Babies, no doubt, are so thick in the home neighborhoods of some of those people who turned to stare that it is hard to walk without falling over one or more of them; yet so seldom is a baby seen in downtown streets that its occasional presence there is cause for general wonderment.

One Advantage of a Club.

"They told me it would be a great advantage to join this club," he said, as he tore open an envelope. "This is the advantage it has been to me: It has circulated my name among all the grafters in the city, printed as it is in the year book among the members. My mail is flooded with letters from some institution or other, begging for funds. I wish I never had heard of the old club," he said, as he flung the shreds into the wastepaper basket.

"But," she objected, "when you kick the bucket, won't your name be encircled by a nice black line among the list of the deceased members in the year book? That's why I belong to my club and pay my dues."

Nature Fake.

Ants are really very long-lived, considering their minuteness. A naturalist had two queens under observation for ten years and one of Sir John Lubbock's ant pets lived into her fifteenth year. Ants are very tenacious of life after severe injury. Following the loss of the entire abdomen they sometimes live two weeks, and in one case a headless ant, carefully decapitated by aseptic surgery, lived for 41 days. A carpenter ant, after being submerged eight days in distilled water, came to life upon being dried, so that they are practically proof against drowning. They can live long periods without food; in one case the fast lasted nearly nine months.

The Greatest of All Joys.

The serene days pass by and leave little mark on mind and character, but the days of storm and struggle mold a man's life alike in the actual combats of sport and in the actual strife of living. Conquest over difficulty and danger is the greatest of all joys. A man does not need to be a mountain-climber to learn the lesson. It is the lesson of life.—Sir Martin Conway, in the Strand Magazine.
